WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—A prominent citizen of Virginia recently from Richmond says the rebels are going to attempt to drive the Army of the Potomac back upon Washington by a demonstration along Blue Ridge, and, if possible, a battle near Bull Run.

The rebels have almost entirely suspended their operations on their iron-clads. Three are concentrated at Charleston, and two in process of construction. There is only one iron-clad on the river—the Richmond. Two are neglected, but their guns are removed to DEATH OF A CHILD—The death of a child is a terrible occurrence. On Sunday evening, the 7th inst., the dwelling of Mr. Gottlieb, in Perkiomen township, Montcomery county, Pennsylvania, was destroyed by fire. The father and his wife were absent at church service, and the distance from home. Three children were in the house when the conflagration broke out. When the neighbor arrived, the children were lying on the ground, and were breathing and dreading pains, and the rescued child was also gotten down, said to be almost immediately thereafter, and a great deal of property could not be rescued.

It is supposed that the cause of a coal-oil lamp caused the conflagration. This terrible catastrophe should be a warning to parents not to leave infants alone in the house.
